CT CHEST PLAIN (16 Slice)(Amended)

Clinical data: Cough with expectoration , breathing difficulty

OBSERVATION:

Small nodular density in posterior segment of right upper lobe.

Mild tubular bronchiectatic changes with mild bronchial wall thickening present in bilateral lung fields.

Mediastinal position and contents including the trachea and its bifurcation, thoracic aorta, the main pulmonary artery and its branches appear normal

No definite mass lesions identified in the mediastinum / hilar regions.

No significant lymph node enlargement identified.

No pleural effusion.

The heart is orthotopic with normal configuration. The cardiac chambers are of normal size.

No significant pericardial thickening / fluid collection seen.

No obvious abnormal wall thickening / dilatation of the thoracic esophagus is seen.

No lytic/ sclerotic lesions in visualized skeleton.

Both adrenal glands are normal. No abnormal soft tissue nodule / mass lesions seen.

Multiple small soft tissue density lesions in superficial plane of anterior abdominal wall.

IMPRESSION CT study of the chest shows

- Multiple patchy homogenous densities with surrounding ground glassing present involving left lung as described - *Likely infective.
- Mild tubular bronchiectatic changes with mild bronchial wall thickening in bilateral lung fields.
- Multiple small soft tissue density lesions in superficial plane of anterior abdominal wall - *benign.

Endocrinology Investigation
PROCALCITONIN - (Serum)
TEST NAME	RESULT	REPORT
Procalcitonin PCT	0.091	LOW RISK

INTERPRETATION:

CLINICAL SIGNIFICANCE :

It is used as an aid in the diagnosis of bacterial infections going in for sepsis or septic shock. It is used as a prognostic marker to predict the outcome to treatment in sepsis. It is an indicator of severity and major complications in acute Pancreatitis. It can be used as a guide to decide the necessity of antibiotic therapy and monitor the success of treatment in Ventilator associated pneumonia and complicated respiratory tract infections.

NON-INFECTIOUS ORGIN:

It can be increased in prolonged and severe cardiogenic shock,organ perfusion anamolies, small cell lung cancer. Medullary C-cell thyroid carcinoma, early stages of trauma, surgeries, severe burns, neonates within 48 hours after birth and treatment releasing cytokines. it is used as a diagnostic marker only with clinical correlation.

INTERPRETATION:

1) Less than 0.50ng/mL : Low risk of severe sepsis/septic shock
2) 0.50-2.00 ng/mL : Borderline risk
3) More than 2.00ng/mL : High risk of severe sepsis or septic shock

TEST NAME - (SPECIMEN)	RESULT	BIOLOGICAL REFERENCE RANGE	METHODOLOGY
BIOCHEMISTRY
NT PRO BNP - (Heparinized PLASMA)	1458 ↑	Upto 125 pg/ml	QUANTITATIVE IMMUNOLOGY

INTERPRETATION:

ProBNP is a physiologically inactive fragment released in cardiomyocytes.PBNP test aids in the diagnosis of patients with suspected heart failure, in monitoring patients with compensated left ventricular dysfunction, and in assessing risk of patients With acute coronary syndrome. High concentration of proBNP is usually associated with cardiac dysfunction. However results should be correlated with medical history, clinical And other diagnostic data. NT-ProBNP is a marker of atrial & ventricular distension due to increased intracardiac pressure, hence it is used as an aid in the diagnosis of CHF. NT-ProBNP levels are correlated with New York Heart Association (NYHA) functional classes for CHF.

Clinical Uses:

1.As an aid in the diagnosis of suspected cases of CHF,
2.Detection of mild forms of cardiac dysfunction,
3.To assess severity of heart failure in already diagnosed cases of CHF,
4.For risk stratification of patients with Acute Coronary Syndrome & CHF For monitoring therapy in patients with Left Ventricular dysfunction.
